We have over 20 years experience in the design and build of interactives from London, through to Paris and Hong Kong.

You imagine it. We build it.

The range of services we provide for our clients include:

- Consultation

- AV and hardware systems
- Software development
- Project management
- Manufacture

We work with a limitless range of technologies and materials to deliver your idea on time, to your budget and vision. As a matter of course, throughout the project we monitor project risks, developing practical control measures.

We develop devices and spaces that encourage active participation with a theme, message or simply an idea.

The processes we use to develop ideas from concept to production

PROCESS MAP

The core of our work is to give life to creative ideas. Because each project is unique, we structure our approach to the developing ideas in detail and then into production, working collaboratively with the client team. This ensures that the design expectations are clearly defined and the deliverables are achieved at each stage of the process.

From your briefing we will work with you to develop the specification and scope to meet your requirements, managing the development through the processes of production. From procurement, production and assembly through to installation, commissioning and maintenance while working to CDM, H&S and DDA regulations.
